Assistant Professor of Anthropology

Clemson University Department of Sociology

The Clemson University Department of Sociology’s Anthropology Program invites candidates for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Archaeology/Physical Anthropology to begin August 15, 2006. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Anthropology by the time of appointment, and should be prepared to contribute to a strong and expanding undergraduate program. Preference will be given to candidates whose teaching can support a four-field introductory course, and general education courses in the area of Science, Technology and Society. Clemson University (www.clemson.edu) is a state, land grant institution with 17,000 students located near the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains. The Department of Sociology has a tradition of teaching excellence, outstanding scholarship and a collegial atmosphere. We offer a Master's Degree in Applied Sociology. We particularly encourage applications from individuals with interests that align with Clemson's university-wide emphasis areas: 1) Leadership and Entrepreneurship, 2) Automotive and Transportation Technology, 3) Information and Communication Technology, 4) General Education, including Science-Technology-Society, 5) Family and Community Living, 6) Biotechnology and Biomedical Sciences, 7) Advanced Materials and 8) Sustainable Environment. A record of, or potential for, extramural research funding is also preferred. To apply, send a cover letter, including a brief statement of one's research agenda and teaching philosophy, at least one writing sample, and a curriculum vita that includes the names and e-mail addresses of three references. Direct application materials to: Mike Coggeshall, Chair, Search and Screen Committee, 132 Brackett Hall, Department of Sociology, Clemson University, Clemson, SC 29634-1356. Review of materials will begin on November 1, 2005 and will continue until the position is filled. Clemson University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity Employer and does not discriminate against any individual on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, national origin, religion, sexual orientation or veteran status. All persons are encouraged to apply.
